

Overload Relief System for Import Jacks

Your cylinder might look like this, with a slit in the top of the cylinder. This slit is designed to relieve pressure so the jack will not overload. As your seal reaches the slit, the fluid will pass through the slit to bypass the seal, and not allow the jack to over-extend.

